GOING GOD'S WAY VIDEOS WILL CONTINUE TO BE AVAILABLE AT MTOLIVET.ORG!

Listen!

We live in a noisy world! Traffic, construction, the constant hum of electrical appliances at home and work, television, or music constantly on in the background. Yes, we live in a noisy world!

Most of us are well aware of the dangers of loud sounds to our hearing – working for long periods with power tools or listening to music at high decibel levels for sustained periods. In recent years, researchers have warned that we're less aware of the damage that constant background noise can do to us. As it turns out, our brains need quiet to process information and, more importantly, to reset and recharge. Absent periods of quiet, we have an increased difficulty deciphering all the noise we hear so that we can understand what it even means. More significantly, absent periods of quiet, our brains get overloaded and dulled and we have difficulty finding meaning and hope at all.

And then there's the cultural noise. Every day, it seems, there are more digital channels coming online, more outlets offering entertainment or information, each, and all of them clamoring for our allegiance. In recent years, this relentless competition for digital market share has led to a "culture of the outrageous," where people – entertainers, politicians, marketers, social media influencers, commentators, and pundits – will do anything, say anything in the relentless pursuit of our attention.

It's in just this kind of congested, super-saturated environment of endless noise and a cacophony of competing voices that we – as individuals, families, and a congregation – are seeking this Lent to slow down, breathe, make space for quiet, and... listen. Listen to ourselves. Listen to each other. And listen to God.

Just before embarking on the long road to Jerusalem and the cross, Jesus took his three closest friends up to the top of a nearby mountain. Once there, Peter, James, and John witnessed Jesus revealed in his glory. As Mark writes, "he was transfigured before them, and his clothes became dazzling white, such as no one on earth could bleach them" (9:2-3). And then Moses and Elijah, representing the law and the prophets at the center of Jewish history, appear on the mountain to speak with Jesus. The disciples are terrified, totally unsure what to do. All of a sudden a cloud overshadows everything and a voice from heaven rings out, telling them just what to do: "This is my son, the beloved. Listen to him!"

That's it. "Listen to him." Not "fight for him," or "pledge your heart to him," or "dismiss those who don't follow him," but simply, "listen to him." Why? Because in the life, ministry, death, and resurrection of Jesus, God speaks to us as clearly as possible about just how much God loves us and wants us to love each other. Listen to him. So easy. And yet, as we know too well, so hard when there is so much noise in our lives and so many voices crying out to us.

This Lent, we will have a number of opportunities to practice listening. Listening for God's presence in our lives and listening to God's call to care for ourselves, each other, and God's world. On Sundays, we will listen to a variety of encounters Jesus has with all kinds of people to better understand what God is saying to us through Jesus' ministry. In our daily devotions, we can slow down and listen to the story Mark tells of the last days and hours of Jesus' life and hear again just how much God loves us. On Wednesdays, we will focus on some of the classic "spiritual practices" that have helped Christians over the centuries listen to God: prayer, Bible study, reflection, service, and worship. And through our digital Lenten calendar, we will offer daily opportunities to sharpen our listening skills by putting these ancient spiritual practices to work in our everyday lives. All so that we can detect with more confidence God's presence in our lives, hear God's word of love, be encouraged in faith and life, and share God's love with others in word and deed.

Listen to him. So simple. So important. At times so challenging. Yet, together, so totally do-able! I look forward to sharpening our listening skills throughout this Lenten season so that, come Easter, we can hear once again and anew the life-changing, world-altering good news that God's love and life are more powerful than all things, even death itself.

DEVOTION

He called the crowd with his disciples, and said to them, "If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me." – Mark 8:34

March is the prime season for a casual fan of college basketball such as me, and part the fun for me is watching the coaches. Coaches tend to leak into the demeanor and actions of their players, and this year I've been attentive to the men's Gopher team under the guidance of new homegrown, hometown, Minnesota alum, first-time, and youngest current head coach in the Big Ten, Ben Johnson. While Coach Johnson and the Gophers have been up against formidable odds and will probably not win a title this year, they've won some great games and I've witnessed wisdom, poise, grit, confidence, and comradery. It's a good sign, and it keeps me tuning in.

These days, we have so many choices in whom we will allow to "coach" us or whom we'll "play for." Those choices have great effect. They affect how we see the world. They affect how we respond to situations and the goals to which we aspire.

Some coaches encourage cheating, falsity, violence, and a win-at-all-costs spirit. Some coaches don't have the knowledge necessary for the level of play needed. Meanwhile, the best coaches know that life is bigger than the game and our individual selves. The best coaches get the most out of players and at the same time teach players to be tough yet kind, determined yet honest, intense yet honorable, skilled yet humble.

It has me thinking about how Jesus "coaches" disciples and how we respond in life, and it spurns the question, whom do you/we follow? Whom do you/we allow to teach and guide? To whom do you/we listen, or believe, or trust? Whom are you "playing for"? Jesus says, "follow me."

God, give us the courage to do so, in our whole life...and go Gophers!

— PASTOR RUUD

LISTENING AT MOUNT OLIVET

Throughout this Lent season and particularly when life is difficult, it can be hard to detect God's presence. Yet we have been promised that God is always with us, sustaining and strengthening us for lives of meaning and purpose. This Lent, we look forward to sharpening our listening skills together so that we can listen for God's presence in our lives and listen to what God is saying to us. While we continue to navigate the pandemic we are reminded almost daily how grateful we are to have technology that helps us listen to this important message!

WORD WITH YOUR PASTORS: SO WHAT?!? DOES LUTHER'S THEOLOGY STILL MATTER?

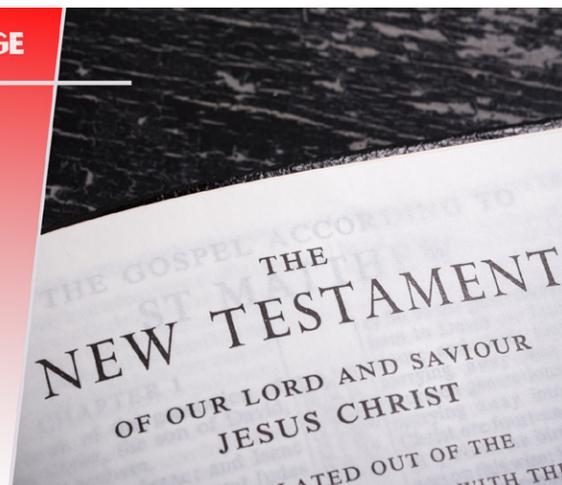

Through his preaching and writing, Martin Luther spurred a reformation of the whole church. His beliefs – that we are justified by grace through faith, that each of us has a calling (vocation), that God uses both government and church to enrich our lives, and that God encourages and directs our lives of faith through law and gospel – shaped the sixteenth century profoundly. But... that was 500 years ago. Does Luther's theology still speak? What relevance do his convictions hold for us today? We'll address these questions by taking a page from Luther's own history. When writing his small and large catechisms, Luther would take central elements of the Christian faith – the Apostles' Creed, Ten Commandments, etc. – and break them down into bite-size pieces and then ask of each one, Was ist Das? Literally "What is this?" Or, more broadly, "What does this mean?" or even "Why does this matter?" So also, we'll lift up four key elements of Luther's theology and ask: "So what? Why does this still matter today?"

LIVING THE MESSAGE

EVERYTHING YOU EVER WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT THE NEW TESTAMENT

What About All These Other Letters?

Hebrews, James, 1 & 2 Peter, 1 John, 2 John, 3 John, Jude (April Session)

In addition to the 13 letters written by or attributed to Paul, there are eight other letters in the New Testament. They all date from a later period than either the letters of Paul or the Gospels, they are directed more generally to the church at large, and they are trying to contend with challenges that came from the rapid growth and spread of the Christian church. What is the nature of Christian leadership? What do we do with people who believe differently? How do we preserve the tradition when the world and church are changing so quickly? These and other questions addressed make these letters challenging, interesting, and at times instructive as we face similar challenges today.

Why Retreat?

Recently my daughter and I spent a weekend at Mount Olivet Conference & Retreat Center. Half-way through a two-week stint of online schooling, we were desperate for time away in this peaceful, beautiful setting. We hiked through the snow, played games in the renovated library lounge, and swam a lot. At one point, Eleanor requested that we watch Netflix on her iPad. I resisted the temptation to point out that in my childhood this was not remotely possible. Instead, I talked to her about going on “retreat.” As many times as she had romped through the grounds and buildings of the Conference & Retreat Center, I had never really talked about the uniqueness and purpose of retreating.

It’s easy to forget that going away on retreat is not the same as going away on vacation, heading to a spa or wellness resort, or even staying in a hotel for few nights. Retreat is a spiritual practice intended to renew our connections to God, each other, and nature. When we retreat, we slow down. We let our bodies follow their natural rhythms. We listen to each other attentively; we notice the call of songbirds and the wind rustling through the prairie; and we attune ourselves to the buried longings of our own hearts. We contemplate God’s love for us and for all creatures. We are renewed and rejuvenated for daily life. So, it helps to turn off our devices and take off our watches and simply be present to God and each other.

We hope you will consider giving yourself or your family the gift of retreating together. We are waiting to welcome you.

DAY LENTEN JOURNEY: THE HOLY IN-BETWEEN

Tuesday, March 8, 10am-3pm, Mount Olivet Conference & Retreat Center, $20 and $10 extra for bussing

This year’s theme “The Holy In-between” invites you to reflect on Lent’s often-neglected last day, Holy Saturday. Squeezed between Good Friday and Easter Sunday, Holy Saturday is the day when God is silent. When the disciples feel bewilderment and despair. It is a painful, in-between day that, upon reflection, teaches us to wait upon God in between all forms of life and death. Join Pastor Freeman, Pastor Ruud, MOCRC Executive Director Rev. Theresa Latini, and Program Director Rev. Jeremy Bork for a day of exploring the history and meaning of this day as it shapes our journey through Lent this year. Cost includes lunch and program. Register at mtolivet.org at least 24 hours in advance. Bussing needs to be reserved at least 72 hours in advance.

FEARFULLY & WONDERFULLY MADE?

Tuesday March 15, 6:30-8:30pm, via Zoom, $20

The Virtual Workshop series “Living Well, Leading Well” returns Tuesday, March 15 with Rev. Dr. Anna Madsen. Based on Anna’s personal experience of grief and her son’s traumatic brain injury, this workshop will wrestle with questions surrounding disability, suffering, and the possibility of redemption and hope despite pain and loss. Psalm 139’s claim of being “fearfully and wonderfully made” might initially sound comforting, but in light both of disability and suffering, it raises questions about whether we are fearfully and wonderfully made...for this? Join Anna in this first workshop to hear her theological and personal responses to these questions and more. Register at mtolivetretreat.org/events or directly in Realm.

MO HOOPS

MO Hoops is Mount Olivet’s high school basketball program that competes against other churches around the Twin Cities. The league aims to promote Christian values through sport and competition. This season, Mount Olivet has three teams and over thirty players from sixteen different high schools! MO Hoops also has a group of dedicated managers who help design apparel, take pictures during games, run the scoreboard, and cheer on the teams.

Mount Olivet teams compete in the Holy Hoops League, with the 2022 season running in two four-week segments. The first half runs from February 20 through March 13, and the second half runs from May 1 through May 22. Games are held on Sunday afternoons at Christ the King Lutheran Church in New Brighton, with transportation for players and managers offered from Mount Olivet campuses. We would love to see you at a game, and please reach out if you are interested in playing next year!

— SAM SANDA, MO Hoops Coach & Youth Staff

Hi, my name is Lilly Allen and last year I was a manager for MO Hoops. I wasn’t quite sure how important I was going to be to the team because I knew about 15 other girls were also signing up to be the managers. I didn’t know what to expect, but it sure wasn’t driving 40 minutes to a church in early spring to see a basketball game being played in the parking lot. At that point I was very interested in what Sam Sanda convinced me to do.

I knew I’d have fun because I always do at church, but I didn’t know I would make so many new friends through a church basketball league! That 40 minute drive was worth it every time. As managers, we had so many different and VERY important jobs like running the MO Hoops Instagram account, keeping score, being the videographer/photographer, and of course my favorite part, organizing the team banquet at the end of the season. Other managers and I sometimes even got to play during the JV games, we even scored a couple of times too. MO Hoops was a big family at the end of the season. I would also add that we did get first place in the church basketball league. If you want to play or be a manager it’s 100% worth it because we always have a great time with the MO Hoops fam! — LILLY ALLEN

Hello, my name is Nate Stone and I have been coming to Mount Olivet ever since I was in 3rd grade. Mount Olivet is the place where I have found some of my best and life-long friends. It is also where I discovered who I am as a person through Confirmation, COP, Hi-League and other groups that I never thought I would find myself a part of, like MO Hoops. For anyone who doesn’t know me, I come from a hockey background and this was all I did growing up (and continue to do now). It was hockey 24/7, 365 so I didn’t play any other winter season sports, such as basketball. I always loved to shoot around in my driveway when it was nice out, but I never played any type of organized basketball until I joined MO Hoops my sophomore year of high school. My decision to join MO Hoops was not based on my basketball skills, but because I wanted to spend more time at church and with my friends. Throughout those 3 years, MO Hoops gave me so much more than just the basic knowledge of basketball, it gave me life-long memories, relationships with people that I will never lose, and most importantly it brought me closer to God in ways I never thought were possible. I want to leave you with a little saying that we have at MO Hoops and it is something I try to live my life by today; “In God’s name we play, Amen.” — NATE STONE

As a player, MO Hoops is awesome. I’ve been playing since freshman year and heading into the senior season now! We travel to New Brighton to play so while it is a bit of a drive, it’s a good time to bond with peers. We always make it fun no matter win or lose. It’s always good competition playing against the other church teams playing. This year, having three teams is the most we’ve had since I started so it is fun to see everyone getting excited for it! We promoted it at camp this summer and at various Hi-League events this fall! MO Hoops consists of boys and girls and it doesn’t matter how good or bad you think you are which is why I love it! We have great coaches that make it even more enjoyable and we always represent Mount Olivet well! We make sure to balance our fun with seriousness while playing and the coaches relate to us on that level too. With three teams representing MO this year, we hope to get another championship to add to the collection! — OWEN SLINDE

From time to time, people outside the Mount Olivet community ask me what makes this congregation so special and why I love serving here so much. My answer is always the same, and always two-fold. The first part is Mount Olivet's consistent emphasis on creating and nurturing authentic relationships among its members. Yes, Mount Olivet is a large church, but there are a thousand and one opportunities to gather in smaller groups where you can get to know others and be known yourself; where you can learn, be challenged, and grow; where you can put your gifts to use to make a difference; and where you know that if you're not able to attend, you'll be missed. From MOCW Circles and Bible study groups to book clubs and a variety of service opportunities, and from Motorheads and Friends Forever to Thursday Friends and our choirs, Mount Olivet is a large community built upon numerous smaller groups that invite you into meaningful relationships where you can grow closer to God by growing closer to one another.

The second thing I share is my admiration for Mount Olivet's commitment to serve our communities. Again, there are so many ways our members share their blessings with others and are blessed in return. Community Meals, Greet-and-Give donation drives, opportunities to work alongside Pastor Scott or serve at Simpson House – opportunities abound. In addition to these "hands-on" events, Mount Olivet has made perhaps its greatest impact both in our congregation and in the community through our affiliated ministries: Mount Olivet Home, Careview Home, and Day Services; Mount Olivet Rolling Acres; Cathedral of the Pines Camp; and the Mount Olivet Conference and Retreat Center. Through these institutions – all "top of their class" in their various categories – Mount Olivet touches and transforms the lives of literally thousands of people each year... and has been doing so for most of its 100-year history.

On Thursday, April 28, we have a chance to celebrate, give thanks for, and strengthen Mount Olivet as a place that fosters relationships and serves our communities as we come together for our Centennial Gala. It promises to be a spectacular evening of fellowship, fun, and fund-raising that gives us a chance to renew and revel in our relationships, learn more about the remarkable work our affiliate ministries do, and support them in a variety of ways. Join me – and join your Mount Olivet family! – for a wonderful evening where we give God thanks for relationships and community outreach of our congregation!

"Jesus took with him Peter and James and John, and led them up a high mountain apart, by themselves. And he was transfigured before them, and his clothes became dazzling white. Then a cloud overshadowed them, and from the cloud there came a voice, 'This is my Son, the Beloved; listen to him!'"

– Mark 9:2-3, 7
