The People God Created Us To Be

There is a passage in Matthew's Gospel that vexed me for a number of years. It comes in the middle of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount and reads, "Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect" (Matthew 5:48). It's the "be perfect" part that I stumbled over. It always felt kind of impossible. God perfect? Of course. Me? Not so much. But then I discovered that the word translated as "perfect" is "telos," a Greek word that means "to reach one's intended purpose." Which makes that verse mean something quite different: "Be the person you were created to be, just as God is who God is supposed to be." That feels like an apt description of the Christian life, growing into – becoming – the person God created us to be.

In November, we focus on the third word that makes up Mount Olivet's mission statement: becoming. We are invited to become the people God created us to be, the people God wants us to be, and the people that God's world needs us to be. With the hope of helping us reach our own telos, we will read together several biblical stories in Sunday worship that describe four significant persons in the biblical story – Jeremiah, Moses, Jacob, and Peter – who are each invited to become far more than they'd ever imagined possible. As we enter into their stories, we can expect to meet – and be challenged and supported by – the same God who drew them into lives of meaning and consequence.

Worship is one experience that helps us become the people God wants us to be, but certainly not the only. We grow in our faith through our service to others, and November brings several opportunities to demonstrate our concern for our neighbors through our Christmas for All donation drive, Thanksgiving food drive, and the start of our MOCW Coat and Mitten Drive (pg. 6). We are also more likely to live into our potential as we deepen our relationships with each other, whether through the laughter and fellowship we might share together at the Holiday Boutique or Holiday Market (pg. 7) or by sharing each other's burdens with the help of our upcoming grief retreat (pg. 10). And we can deepen our sense of God's hopes for us through Bible study and learning in settings like our Living the Message class – you can join anytime and participate in-person or online! (pg. 11) – and our Day Advent Journey (pg. 10).

Two final notes as we contemplate how we can become the people God created us to be. First, most of our growth comes through our interactions and experiences with others. For example, while we can certainly study Scripture alone, we regularly find it more engaging, meaningful, and fun to do so with others. That's why St. Paul's metaphor of the church as "the body of Christ" is so compelling: we come together as individual members woven together into something larger, a community that celebrates together when things go well, rallies together when things are challenging, and supports each other through thick and thin. As we share ourselves with others – in fellowship, learning, service, and worship – we grow in ways simply not possible alone.

Second, it's important to be patient with ourselves – and each other! – on this journey to becoming the people and congregation God hopes us to be. Martin Luther, who accomplished incredible things but also struggled with major shortcomings and setbacks, put it beautifully when describing the Christian life not as a static state but an active endeavor, trusting that beyond all of our efforts stands God's promise to draw us to the purpose and telos for which God created us. As Luther writes, "This life therefore is not righteousness, but growth in righteousness, not health, but healing, not being but becoming, not rest but exercise. We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it, the process is not yet finished, but it is going on, this is not the end, but it is the road. All does not yet gleam in glory, but all is being purified."

At Mount Olivet, we are indeed a people who believe the good news, who belong to each other and our communities, and who are committed to becoming the people and church God created us to be. I look forward to continuing that journey with you, anchored by the sure promises of Christ our Lord.

DEVOTION

"Giving thanks to God the Father at all times and for everything in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." – Ephesians 5:20

I find these words from the apostle Paul to be difficult. Is it really possible to give thanks for everything that comes to us in life? Is it appropriate to give thanks for some of life's sorrows and tragedies? It would be quite different if we were asked to give thanks for every good thing in our lives, wouldn't it?

We can all admit that we take far too much good for granted, that we allow our wants to become confused with our needs, and that we generally fail to appreciate the prosperity we enjoy in comparison to so many others around the world.

For those of us who have been touched by the greatness of God's love, in our times of difficulty we may pause to question God on why these times occur. Last night I had a text conversation with a woman I've known since 6th grade. Her cousin, a member of Mount Olivet, had just died of cancer. She was basically struggling with how a loving God could allow this to happen? So is the Apostle Paul hopelessly naive in asking us to give thanks in all circumstances?

Well, Paul certainly experienced profound life sorrows. No one is exempt. To give thanks in the face of that sorrow is not naive, but a profound statement of faith in one whose eternal commitment to our well-being is certain. We stand humbled before all we do not understand, but rooted nevertheless in our sureness that beyond our knowing lies God's great wisdom in ordering our lives and our world.

Angels THEN AND NOW

Angels hold a special place in our Christmas celebrations, as they are often found decorating front yards (and church parking lots!), lending their shape to the tastiest of Christmas cookies, decorating trees as an ornament or tree-topper, and adorning our cards and wrapping paper. They hold a special place in the Christmas story as well, visiting Zechariah (John the Baptist's dad), Mary, Joseph, and the shepherds. But have you ever wondered where these celestial visitors come from and what their purpose is in the biblical story? We get our word "angel" from a Greek word, Angelos, which means "messenger." And that's what angels do – they bring a message to people from God. Which means, as we'll discover this Advent, that there are still angels around us... and we might even be one of them!

MISSING THE MARK: THE TRUTH ABOUT "SIN"

In my experience, "sin" is one of the most familiar and, simultaneously, misunderstood words in the Christian faith. In this session, we'll dig into one of the most iconic passages of Scripture – the account of Adam and Eve's "fall" in Genesis 3 – and discover that it, too, is both familiar and often misunderstood. A deeper, closer reading of this story, as well as candid reflection on our own experience of life in a fallen world, will help us understand and reclaim the word "sin" in our individual and congregational life.

In particular, embracing a more biblical view of sin turns out to be less about guilt and shame and more about being honest with ourselves and each other, leaning into a repentance born of hope, and being open to hear God's redemptive word of grace and forgiveness. I hope you can join us in December, either in person or via the recorded session (or both!), as understanding and reclaiming that little three-letter word "sin" can be instructive, interesting, and remarkably hopeful!

OUR FAVORITE THANKSGIVING EVENTS

ADOPT-A-GRANDPARENT THANKSGIVING SERVICE

To start this off, I would like to introduce myself. My name is Sydney Campo. I have been involved with Mount Olivet since preschool. One of the many things I enjoy doing through church is volunteering. I especially liked taking part in Adopt-a-Grandparent. Adopt-a-Grandparent, or AGP, was one of the best experiences that I've ever had with volunteering. AGP is an incredible way to show acts of kindness. One thing that I love about AGP is the social aspect of it. You grow closer with those from Mount Olivet and get to know the residents of the Mount Olivet Home. One of my favorite events was the Thanksgiving Service that we do at the Home in the Chapel. It's youth-led and last year, I got to be a scripture reader. In conclusion, I am so happy that I got to experience AGP, and I'd highly encourage others to do it. — Sydney Campo, AGP alumni, 9th Grader at Benilde-St. Margaret's

BIBLE PRESENTATION RECAP

4th graders and their families had a wonderful gathering at each campus as Pastor Lose taught us about the Bible. At the conclusion of each class, Bibles were presented to 4th graders. If your 4th grader was unable to attend the class and presentation, Bibles are available in Sunday School at each campus.

MUSIKGARTEN

Do you have a young child in your life who LOVES music? Consider early childhood group music classes as an invaluable tool for the growth and development for your child, as well as a weekly time of fun and bonding! Every child is born with an aptitude for music. Early childhood is an opportune time to develop this potential in an active, joyful, and developmentally appropriate way. Musikgarten classes have been offered at Mount Olivet for the youngest members of our church since the 1990's, with hundreds of babies, toddlers and preschoolers taking part with their parents and caregivers!

The Musikgarten curriculum is a holistic program. It develops the whole child not only musically but emotionally, physically, socially, and cognitively as well. In Musikgarten classes we nurture music aptitude by engaging children and their caregivers through singing and movement activities which help tune the ear, refine the voice, and develop a rhythmic body through which music can be expressed.

What can you expect to see and hear in a Musikgarten class? Children ages birth-3 years of age singing, dancing with colorful scarves, echoing rhythm patterns (our ba-ba's!), doing focused listening exercises, finding and keeping a steady beat with rhythm sticks and making music with shakers and jingles!

Our class time is educational, fun, nurturing and purposeful...we'd love to have you join us for our next session that begins January 17 through April 28! Register at mtolivet.org. Questions? Contact Colleen Roess at colleenr@mtolivet.org or 612.767.2258.

CONNECTIONS, BLESSINGS & ACTIONS

Like many of us today, our lives are filled with far too much work, far too many obligations, and far too much distraction. As much as we try to fight these forces, we must admit most days a victory feels like we just held our ground. For our family, the one counterbalance to all of this occurs on Sunday mornings, when we walk into Mount Olivet. The two of us and our boys feel a sense of calm, a sense of peace, and a sense of true community washing over us.

This is not new, as Mount Olivet has been creating meaningful connections and feeding our family for years. Whether it has been volunteering with Hi-League, serving on the Board of Life and Growth, attending Bible Studies, or now with our young boys attending Sunday School, singing in the youth choirs and attending Cathedral of the Pines. Mount Olivet is our true community—a community that has met us where we are in our various life stages, and has repeatedly found ways to feed and strengthen our souls.

As Jesus has reminded us in the Gospel of Luke: to whom much is given, much is required. We spend many family dinners talking about this passage and what it means and requires from each of us. It has been a very helpful tool for our family to reflect on all the blessings we have received from God and regroup us in what matters in life. We talk about not only what is required of us, but what actions our blessings inspire within us. And while this plays out differently for each of our family members, the one spot where we all align is in giving back generously to Mount Olivet, through both our time and our financial resources.

We ask you all to consider joining in our tradition over your next family meal and take turns sharing the bountiful blessings you receive from God and in what ways you can say thank you by giving back. — Kai and Carolyn Sakstrup
