A New Year of Grace (Upon Grace!)

At this time of year, I have gotten into the habit of speaking not just about a “new year” but rather about “a new year of grace.” It’s a way to remind myself that all of the time we are given on this earth is a gift, a gift to be treasured, used, and shared. Nothing in this life is guaranteed – not life or joy or health. All are gifts of grace.

As we read through the introduction to John’s Gospel this past December, I realized I was selling this new year short. After describing Jesus as God’s eternal word that takes on our flesh and brings life and light to all, John then says, “From his fullness, we have all received grace upon grace.” Did you hear that? Not just grace, but grace upon grace. Grace multiplied. More grace than you can imagine. Grace upon grace.

In several of our stories from John’s Gospel this January, John shows us what that looks like in the life and ministry of Jesus. On January 11, for instance, John the Baptist sees Jesus and immediately declares, “Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.” The grace Jesus brings is so huge, so all-encompassing, that sin just doesn’t stand a chance. On January 18, we hear the story of the wedding at Cana, when Jesus turns water into wine (a sign of blessing in the ancient world). And not just wine, but the best wine, and not just a few precious bottles, but 150 gallons. Once again, blessing upon blessing; grace upon grace. And on January 25, we read the story of Jesus chasing the money changers out of the Temple. Why? Money changers were essential to enable faithful Jews to purchase animals for sacrifice. But because Jesus is the lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world, there simply is no more need for sacrifice. Ever. Again. Grace upon grace.

I can’t think of a better way to start this new year of grace (upon grace!) than being reminded of God’s love for and acceptance of us and all people in and through the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ! In light of this incredible promise, I want to offer an invitation and a question.

First, the invitation. Believe this is true: That Jesus – his life, ministry, death, and resurrection – demonstrate that God loves us and accepts us completely and unconditionally. Or, better: believe this is true for you. Sometimes we can accept the idea of love, acceptance, and forgiveness in general, but still struggle believing it applies to us. We know our shortcomings, failings, and insecurities so well we may have difficulty trusting that God doesn’t see us this way or judge us this way, but rather sees us as beloved children. Always. No matter what.

One way to anchor yourself in this promise is to start and end your day the way we lead our kids in starting every Confirmation class. By making the sign of the cross on our foreheads and saying, “I am a child of God. I am loved. I am not alone.” Try it. That tangible reminder twice a day will help. Another way to grow in your trust of God’s promises is to come to worship regularly so you can hear the good news of God’s love, acceptance, forgiveness, and grace in the singing, Scripture reading, and sermons!

Then, a question: what will you do differently this year because “from his fullness we have all received grace upon grace”? What risks will you take, knowing that whether you succeed or fail, God loves you? What standards will you set for how you let others treat you, believing that you are God’s beloved child and worthy of all good things? How will you treat others knowing that they, too, are God’s beloved children and similarly deserve to be treated with dignity and respect? How will you share God’s grace with others – family and friends to be sure, but also with people who are different from us, perhaps disagree with us, or believe differently from us, yet are still God’s children?

We will be reading the Gospel of John’s story about Jesus – a story that might be subtitled, “this is what grace upon grace looks like” – from now through May. So as we venture through this new year, let Jesus’ promise of love, acceptance, forgiveness, and grace fill your hearts, direct your lives, and embolden you to reach out to others with love.

See you in Church!

DO YOU KNOW WHAT “EPIPHANY” MEANS?

January 6 is the Festival of Epiphany and the start of a new season of the Church. (At Mount Olivet, we will celebrate the Epiphany on January 4, the closest Sunday to the 6th.) But did you ever wonder what's going on with this day and season and why should we pay attention to it?

The Festival of Epiphany is often called “the festival of light.” Like Christmas, it celebrates the birth of Jesus, with a particular focus on Jesus as the light of the world. January 6th also ushers us into the season of Epiphany that runs all the way to Lent. In some ways, Epiphany is the mirror season to Advent. Whereas during the four weeks of Advent, we light more and more candles as the days grow shorter and darker, across the nearly two-month season of Epiphany there is a little more light each day, symbolizing how the light of Christ that was born at Christmas continues to grow and spread.

If you're not that familiar with Epiphany, you're not alone because, truthfully, this festival is not that big of a deal in most Protestant churches in Europe and North America. Christmas is the major winter festival celebrating Jesus' birth, the day we sing songs and give gifts. But in Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches, especially in Latin America, Greece, and Russia, Epiphany is a very big deal. Variously known as Twelfth Night (it falls 12 days after Christmas), the Feast of the Epiphany, and El Dia de los Tres Reyes (Three Kings Day), January 6, rather than December 25, is the day that many Christians across the world will give each other gifts. Which makes sense, when you think about it, because church tradition holds that the magi arrived in Bethlehem on this very day to present the baby Jesus with gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

The word “Epiphany” comes from a Greek word that means “to reveal.” When you hear someone say, “I had an epiphany,” it usually refers to a new realization or idea that feels big enough to be called a revelation. Similarly, this season recognizes that the gift of grace we celebrate at Christmas – that God in Jesus takes on our lot and life – is too big to sink in immediately. Rather, it takes time for us to fully grasp God's promises of love, forgiveness, and acceptance. So go ahead, revel in God's grace across this season so that you might also have the “epiphany” that God loves you more than you can imagine!

DEVOTION

"Whoever is in Christ: new creation."

—2 Corinthians 5:17

The holidays have come to a close and the calendar has turned to a new year. Phew!

We've decked the halls, frosted the cookies, wrapped and opened the presents. The remnants of which are now back in storage, or on the curb.

As the seconds tick down on the year that was, we begin to look ahead to what's next.

New routines. New diets. New plans for a new you. Which sounds great...until new plans also end up kicked to the curb.

We jump onto the seesaw each time the calendar resets. But celebration and resolution are not a zero-sum game. We don't have to give up one for the other. We can enjoy all that life affords us – and live with intention.

I think that gets at what it means to be in Christ. "Whoever is in Christ: new creation." We are not called to be super human...but human. Ones who are set free with trust in their Creator. Ones who are called to enjoy what God has given – and to live with the meaning bestowed on us by our Creator. Happy New Year! God loves you. — PASTOR GRANGAARD

LIVING THE MESSAGE

STORIES THAT SHAPE US

GENESIS 1 & ISAIAH 40: "WHEN EVERYTHING IS LOST" - EXILE AND CREATION

TAUGHT BY PASTOR GRANGAARD

Tuesday, January 6, 6:30-7:30pm, Mpls Campus Room 207

What do you hold onto when everything is lost? During Israel's exile—marked by violence and grief—the people clung to their identity and Creator. Genesis 1, "In the beginning when God created the heavens and the earth," was preserved through oral tradition and written during this time of devastation. Its message is clear: when there was nothing, God made something. Even in exile, God is creating anew. From the beginning up to this moment, God is not finished. God will not give up on us. "Have you not known? Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth" (Isaiah 40:28).

PASTOR GRANGAARD

GENESIS 50: "YOU MEANT IT FOR EVIL" - GOD'S SAVING WORK IN THE FACE OF SUFFERING

TAUGHT BY PASTOR CIESLIK

Tuesday, February 3, 6:30-7:30pm, Mpls Campus Room 207

Why do bad things happen to good people? I don't really know, and I have never really found a satisfying answer. But I love this story about Joseph and his brothers because it gives us a helpful, and more importantly, hopeful way to talk about what God is doing in the world while hard stuff is unfolding around us. Join us!

FAITH AND POLITICS

(NO, WE'RE NOT GOING TO TELL YOU HOW TO VOTE!)

Mpls Campus: Wednesdays, January 21 through February 11, 10:30-11:30am, Room 207

West Campus: Thursdays, January 22 through February 12, 10:30-11:30am, Rehearsal Hall

Series also available via videos filmed live at the Mpls presentation and sent out one week after each Mpls class date

Many would argue that faith and politics don't mix. Martin Luther would respectfully disagree. He believed strongly that God was at work through government to care for God's people and world. (In fact, Luther believed that God established government for just this reason!) Because of this, Luther believed that every Christian had a role to play in supporting governmental institutions by praying for our civic leaders; paying our taxes cheerfully; and holding government officials accountable for using those taxes efficiently and to help God's children flourish, just to name a few.

At the same time, Luther was very suspicious of religious leaders who wanted to exercise political power and of secular leadership who tried to influence religion or use religion to justify their policies. This separation of church and state – or, more accurately, this "distinction of responsibilities" among the church and the state – was relatively novel in Luther's day and proved influential. James Madison, for instance, when working on the US Constitution, credited Luther for the intellectual framework behind Madison's provisions for the protections of religious liberty and separation of church and state.

Curious about how that has played out? Have concerns – or, for that matter, hopes – about how faith and politics might interact? Want to learn more about our dynamic faith tradition? Interested in hearing what Luther has to say about politics without having your pastors tell you how to vote? ☺If any of these apply to you, join Pastors Dixon and Lose for this winter edition of "Word with Your Pastors"!

CHRISTMAS FOR ALL RECAP

Thanks to Mount Olivet members, the 7th annual Christmas for All congregational service opportunity was another amazing and rewarding event! In partnership with Love INC, Redeemer Lutheran Church, and Southside Family Nurturing Center, Christmas stores were set up throughout the month of December to provide dignified shopping experiences for families identified by our community partners. The West Campus hosts a store for more than 500 individuals. Similar shopping experiences are then hosted at Redeemer Lutheran and Southside Family Nurturing Center thanks to your gifts. Thank you, Mount Olivet family and friends, who put faith into action by donating, transporting, sorting and displaying gifts, assisting families with their shopping experiences, offering hospitality and childcare to shoppers, and beautifully wrapping gifts to make Christmas meaningful. Very special thanks to the fellowship groups and choirs whose Christmas For All promotion and support increased congregational participation, to Victoria Circle who spent an entire day setting the West Campus store up, to event chairs Mary Jo Huntley and Jessica Gunderson who so graciously and seamlessly lead this effort each year. God's light shines through you! Thank you!

This is Why We Give

I was raised in a home where love, joy, and giving were modeled by my parents in the way they served and cared for others, and prioritized faithfulness. My sister and I grew up surrounded by their steady example, and Mount Olivet reinforced those lessons through Sunday school, choir, confirmation, worship, youth programs, and Cathedral of the Pines. Our Weber family and our church family shaped us into the people we are today. That foundation is one of the greatest gifts my parents provided.

Todd, after marrying into Mount Olivet, embraced that same grounding and has found his own sense of belonging here. Together, we have tried to raise Brady and Annie with the same values. They are growing up with a legacy that stretches from grandparents to parents to children, with each generation shaped by Mount Olivet in meaningful ways.

Mount Olivet is woven into our family's life in ways that go far beyond specific programs or moments. It is the place where Brady and Annie have grown up surrounded by a community that reflects God's love in everyday ways. They have learned to recognize the Holy Spirit in quiet conversations, in music that lifts their hearts, in friendships that encourage honesty, and in the steady support they feel at church. Cathedral of the Pines has deepened that even more. It is where they slow down, listen, and feel God's presence in creation and in each other. Watching them carry kindness, compassion, and courage into their daily lives reminds us that faith takes root when a loving community helps it grow. And that is what Mount Olivet has done for our family.

This is why we give. Mount Olivet continues to shape each generation of our family with love, grounding, and hope.

In gratitude and faith,

BETH, TODD, BRADY, AND ANNIE KLEMMENSEN

John 15:11

JULIE GOODMAN, Director of Congregational Care Ministry

Happy 2026! As I was reflecting on this past year, I wanted to focus on the good things that have happened and not the tough stuff. As I was thinking of joyful moments, one came across my mind that makes me smile. This moment has happened many times throughout the year.

The preschoolers of Mount Olivet pass by the Congregational Care office on their way to their classrooms. I often hear them run into the building, so excited to be here and their sweet voices saying, "Good Morning." In the afternoon, they share with their parents all that they have done throughout the day. Those sweet voices bring a smile to my face and joy to my heart for their excitement to learn and be with their friends.

That made me think, what can we do to bring joy to others? Bringing joy to others can be very simple: holding a door for someone, smiling and saying hello to someone you don't know. It can be a bit bigger like bringing a favorite coffee drink to a friend, asking a co-worker how they are doing and listening intently to their answer, or bringing someone a meal who has been going through a difficult time.

It could even be bigger, by bringing joy in your heart to volunteer. There are so many ways to share your joy throughout our church community. It could be as simple as bringing a member to a church service or helping with our food drives just a few times a year. It could be helping at a funeral reception or serving meals Thursday evenings as part of the Community Meals program. You could share your joy more often by volunteering on the Parking Lot Crew at either campus or joining choir and sharing your gift of joy through singing. These are just a few examples; there are so many more. Sharing joy builds and strengthens friendships and community connections. How will you share your joy?

prayed the right way or contributed enough, Lent is meant to be a time of honesty with God, ourselves, and one another. Join Pastor Dixon, Pastor Freeman, and Rev. Bork for our Day Lenten Journey at the MOCRC, exploring the truth of Lent – leading us from our honest confession of sin to God's life-giving promise of grace.
